0 of 13 review helpful I paid money for this book so you DO NOT have to BUY IT By Parsons 210 I always rush to buy a book from Jess Nevins because even a stopped clock is right twice a day amirite Sadly this book is just a collection of writing by other writers not Jess The sadness overtook me when I saw there was no Alan Moore in the book too The anxiety and dread of wartime Britain is recaptured in this anthology of horror stories and supernatural fiction dating from 1914 ndash 18 Rather than taking war as their theme the tales offer readers escapist fare populated by ghosts ghouls and other malevolent spirits Written amid the golden age of horror fiction mdash the decades between the turn of the twentieth century and 1940 when tales of terror and the weird flourished mdash these stories con About the Author Boston native Jess Nevis is the author of the World Fantasy Award nominated Encyclopedia of Fantastic Victoriana as well as other works on Victoriana and pulp fiction
